NORSE TROOPS BATTLE NAZIS NORTH OF OSLO

Travelers Tell of Blitzkrieg
Developments on Return to Stockholm.

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, April 10—Norwegian troops defending their capital and its new capital, a fierce battle with invading German forces today at the Elverum, 75 miles north of Oslo, on the Swedish frontier, according to advices reaching here.

About 200 Norwegians were reported killed and wounded, while German losses were not immediately known.

The Germans were reported advancing rapidly, but the town still had not been occupied by 4:30 p. m. (10:20 a. m. Marion time).

Volunteers joined the regular Norwegian troops to defend the capital from the invaders. The royal family and the government fled to Elverum from Oslo, where it had gone yesterday just ahead of the German advance.

Plans Support Troops
German troops were supported by aircraft against Elverum, where airplanes, travelers reaching here related.

Reports from Moscow to the Russian newspaper Aftonbladet and the Russian press, however, stated that the German advance was not as rapid as reported. The German advance was reported to be concentrated troops in the north and to have her army ready for any eventuality.

Danish fishermen reported that German warships were in the Skagerrak today, and that 10,000 German soldiers had landed there. Elverum is only 25 miles from the border of neutral Sweden.

German forces were transported by air to the battle zone by yesterday. Aerial reinforcements were brought in later.

Norway lost her two largest warships, the antiquated 4,106-ton battleship, the antiquated 4,106-ton battleship, the antiquated 4,106-ton battleship.

STOCKHOLM, April 10—The British and German navies, struggling for mastery of Scandinavia, fought the fiercest naval battle of the war off Norway's northwestern coast at dawn today.

Five British destroyers engaged six German destroyers off the coast of Narvik, occupied by the Germans yesterday, and before the guns were silenced Britain had lost two destroyers and suffered damage to two, and she claimed to have sunk one of the German craft and left three heavily hit and burning.

Prime Minister Chamberlain presented a story of the battle to cheering house of commons. He presented it as a British victory, stating that six merchant ships believed to be carrying supplies for the Germans were sunk and that the German ammunition ship Havenslof was blown up.

The admiralty communiqué said there was no confirmed report from Stockholm that a German cruiser had been sunk, apparently in the Narvik fight.

In synchronized air forays against the German fleet off Bergen, southwestern Norway, the German cruiser was hit once and another three times, the communiqué said, and a British submarine torpedoed a German cruiser off south Norway last night.

"It is thought that the cruiser was sunk," the admiralty announced.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax said today that the allies would regard German-Norwegian regulations as "action taken."

Father Schreiner's Golden Jubilee Observance Opens at Galion Thursday

REV. FATHER SCHREINER

Program Planned To Celebrate Priest's 50 Years in Church.

Special to The Star

GALION, April 10—The papal colors of yellow and white predominate the decorations which have been placed in St. Joseph's Catholic church, the parochial school which is affiliated with the church, and the Galion Elks' club where within the next several days will take place celebrations in honor of the golden jubilee of the priesthood of the Rev. Father A. H. Schreiner.

Observances of the fiftieth anniversary will bring many distinguished visitors to Galion, including the most Reverend Karl J. Alter, bishop of the diocese of Toledo who will preside on the throne celebrating the solemn high mass Thursday morning, April 11. This service begins the celebrations which will be held all day Thursday, on Friday evening and Sunday.

Public Helps Celebration
Beside the parishioners of St. Joseph's Catholic church, all Galion citizens and friends in the vicinity have been invited to attend the services celebrating this most extraordinary event.

For the Thursday morning service, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor R. C. Goebel of Mansfield will be the jubilee preacher, and the musical features will be provided by the men's choir composed of members of the junior and senior classes of St. Peter's High school of Mansfield, and soloists from the alumni choir of that school.

Dinner for the bishop and priests from neighboring cities and Cleveland who will be here for the celebration, will be served immediately following the morning service at the Mansfield-Leland hotel in Mansfield. A program of toasts has been planned for the dinner hour.

To Repeat Program
So many have reserved seats for the program to be given in St. Joseph's school Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock by the children that the program will be repeated Friday evening, it was announced today by Rev. Father Louis Hultman who has been planning the different events for the celebration.

On Sunday evening, April 14, the day will be given over to the observance by the parishioners. Father Schreiner will be celebrant for the solemn high mass at 8 a. m. Sunday when the sermon will be delivered by Rev. Father Joseph Maeder of the Immaculate Conception church of Bellevue, and music will be provided by the local church choir. Father Maeder was a Galion boy.

The program Sunday evening will be held at the Galion Elks' club. This will be a testimonial dinner for Father Schreiner by the parish. At this time there will be toasts by representatives of both the men and the women of the parish, and the address of the evening will be given by the Rev. Father William Killoran of St. Patrick's Catholic church of Galion. Special music will also be a part of the program.

Ordained April 12, 1890
It was April 12, 1890, that Father Schreiner was ordained a priest of the Catholic church in the chapel of the St. Mary's seminary by the Most Reverend Richard Gilmour, then bishop of the Cleveland diocese. The following day he sang his first solemn mass in St. Peter's church in Cleveland.

Brooklyn, N. Y., born there Aug. 31, 1865, the son of the late Henry and Mary E. Schreiner. He is the last of a family of six children, having had four brothers and one sister.

Always interested in the city's civic affairs, Father Schreiner has seen many changes in the city of Galion since he came to Galion 41 years ago. Jan. 14, to take up the pastorate of St. Joseph's church. When he came here in 1899 he also had charge of St. Patrick's Catholic church until November 1900 when a permanent pastor was assigned to that church.

Not content to spend his few leisure hours idly, Father Schreiner devotes his spare time to his hobby—handicraft. Working with tools, and proud of the fact that his collection includes the first saw and hammer that he used when he was a young priest, he has made many miniature houses.

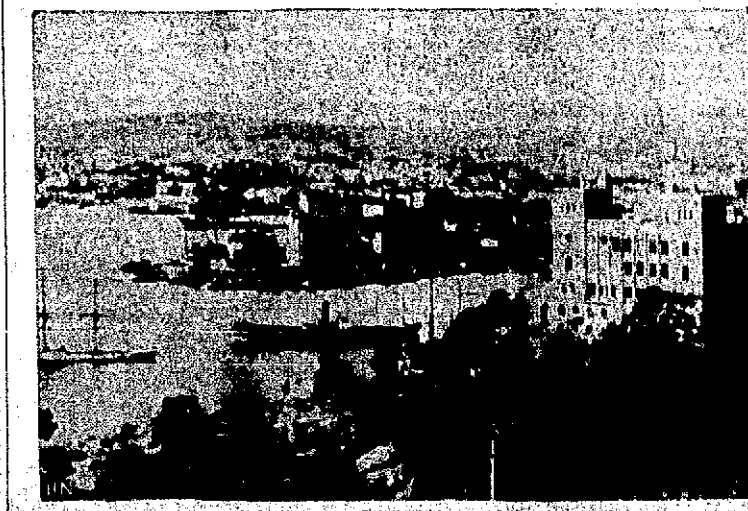

His education started in Pennsylvania and was completed in Pennsylvania and Ohio, where he studied arts, sciences, philosophy and theology.

City Starts Spring Street Cleanup, Asks for Cooperation of Citizens

Marion residents today were asked to cooperate with city officials in their annual spring cleanup work by refraining from raking leaves, twigs and other debris into streets.

Making the appeal is Safety Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell who said that within the next few days the city's maintenance crew will begin using the city's street flusher at regular intervals. But, Mr. Caldwell pointed out, the street's can't be kept up and span unless property owners and tenants do their part.

In recent years, he said, the maintenance crew has made its rounds frequently only to have some one spoil their work a few hours later by placing debris from lawns in the streets.

He suggested that there are several methods for discarding debris which can be followed. In a few sections of the city burning of rubbish is not banned but the safest and most satisfactory method, he declared is having the debris hauled away. City trucks regularly carry away rubbish for subscribers to the city's garbage service while there are several independent rubbish haulers available to non-subscribers, he said.

GUS HOLLAND TRIAL UNDERWAY AT TROY

Former Marion Man Faces Arson Charge.

Special to The Star

TROY, O., April 10—Trial of Gustav A. Holland, former Marion man, on a charge of arson in connection with the $100,000 Holland Mills fire Dec. 10 at Piquette, got under way today in common pleas court here.

Selection of a jury required most of the morning, then opening statements of attorneys were heard before the noon recess. Testimony was to begin this afternoon.

Observers expected the trial to run possibly the rest of the week. More than a score of witnesses have been subpoenaed, including some from Marion, probably as character witnesses.

Court opened at about 9:30 a. m. with Judge Paul Klapp presiding. Prosecuting Attorney Ellis W. Kerr of Troy is handling the state's case and Leo Faust of Troy is defense attorney. It is understood that an insurance company is also interested in the trial and will be represented.

After selection of the jury, which required about two hours, the attorneys made their opening statements.

The prosecution bases its charge on a confession given by William Dowdy of Piquette, sentenced to Mansfield reformatory in connection with the fire. Dowdy's confession implicated Holland, Dowdy declaring that Holland induced him to get fire to the Holland Mills to get rid of competition. The prosecution said Mr. Holland was formerly general manager of the Holland Mills but later severed his connection with it and started a similar mill at Piquette under the name of Holland Piquette Mills.

The defense denied all the prosecution's allegations today. Attorney Faust declared Dowdy had made a confession to get a job in the Holland Mills but was not involved in the fire.

Mr. Holland, the defense says, was a man of good character and was not involved in the fire. The defense also declared that the fire was caused by a defective boiler and was not the result of arson.

BULLETINS
By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 10—The British navy was reported tonight to have penetrated into the strategic Skagerrak, the entrance to the Baltic sea, and to have sunk two German troop transports and a German destroyer in a battle just outside Swedish territorial waters.

LONDON, April 10—A usually reliable neutral source said it had been learned that a British naval flotilla returned to Narvik after the unsuccessful dawn raid today, forced an entrance to the fjord and began landing marines.

There was no British or other confirmation of this report.

STOCKHOLM, April 10—Distress signals from the German steamer Curityba far up in Oslofjord today indicated that Germany might not be in complete control of the deep fjord leading to Norway's captured capital. The steamer's messages said she had been fired on by coastal batteries at Nyvikon deep within the fjord.

BERLIN, April 10—German forces have occupied Hamar, Norwegian town north of Oslo to which the Norwegian government fled yesterday, authorized German sources said today.

They said they had no information, however, regarding the reported occupation of Elverum, near the Swedish border, where King Haakon at noon received the German minister.

BERLIN, April 10—German air squadrons are engaging in battles with the British navy "at several points" in northern part of the North Sea, DNB, the official German news agency, reported today.

The agency said German scouting planes first encountered the British units, then a warned fighting plane squadrons which went immediately to the attack.

Germany Admits Loss of Cruisers
5 British Ships Engage 6 Nazi

By The Associated Press
BERLIN, April 10—Germany announced today that she had lost two cruisers under the fire of Norwegian coastal batteries in landing troops in Norway yesterday, but stated that despite this resistance a complete and "mutually satisfactory" agreement with Norway would be reached within a few hours. (These losses do not include those in today's battle.)

A high command communiqué showed that the Norwegians fought bitterly against the Germans, but claimed despite this opposition the occupation of Narvik, Drontheim, Bergen, Stavanger, Egersund, Kristiansund, Arendal and Oslo. These cities, "among others, are firmly in German hands," said the communiqué.

(Reports reaching Stockholm said a battle was in progress this morning between German and Norwegian troops at Elverum, 75 miles north of Oslo, where the Norwegian royal family and government took refuge yesterday. The outcome was not known.)

Informed German quarters said they expected a complete agreement with King Haakon shortly. The German minister to Norway had an audience with the monarch to clarify the situation and determine who is responsible for governing Norway, an official announcement said.

MARYSVILLE CLUB BACKS SCHOOL HEAD

Passes Resolution Asking Bitniker's Retention.

Special to The Star
MARYSVILLE, April 10—The Marysville Kiwanis club last night passed a resolution asking the Marysville board of education to reconsider its action in dropping the resignation of Superintendent G. B. Bitniker and offer him a new contract for at least two years. The action came following a speech by Tom Foley, speaking before the club as a representative of the high school students.

A heated discussion followed as several members of the club board and those were at the meeting expressed their views concerning the action of the board in dropping Bitniker. When the discussion settled down to normal the motion for the resolution was passed and ordered sent to the board for consideration.

New Relief Offices Open For Business Tomorrow

Plans for opening the city relief offices tomorrow morning in the old North State school building which has been remodeled and converted into a relief center.

The offices on South Prospect street were closed yesterday while the building was being moved but will be open tomorrow morning. The new relief work will be carried on as usual in the new location, Director Frank S. Schaefer announced today.

Quarters for several WPA workers also are to be housed in the new building but will not be ready for several days, officials have announced. The project was completed by the city.

and county certification department in a similar room at the northwest corner, while Mr. Burns private office is located between the two large rooms.

Interior Remodeled

Since the interior of the building was badly burned by a fire two years ago, the city has repaired and repainted sidewalks and woodwork throughout the building, and has rebuilt one of the two inside stairways destroyed by the fire. The other stairway has been eliminated by redesigning the halls.

Permission to use the abandoned school building as a relief headquarters was granted by the school board to the city recently for a period of at least one year as a means of reducing the city's relief costs. The necessary remodeling and redecorating has been done by the city, much of the labor being obtained from work relief rolls.

No Justification for Federal Milk Code Here, Speaker Tells Rotarians

Quality of Milk Cited by H. W. Zachman as Proof Added Expense to Producers Is Unnecessary.

Grounds for opposition to having the milk industry of Marion county regulated and supervised under provisions of the federal ordinance were presented in a talk to members of the Marion Rotary club yesterday by Harvey W. Zachman, one of the county's dairy owners and operators.

In his talk, given following the weekly Rotary luncheon at Hotel Harding, Mr. Zachman said the Marion market is supplied with milk of a high standard and that there would be no justification in subjecting producers to the expense for extra equipment and the additional labor in operation certain to result from the federal code.

Two weeks ago arguments in support of the ordinance were given before the Rotary club by a state health department sanitarian and the club, following inspection of a hearing to both sides of controversial questions, invited the opposition to state its case. Mr. Zachman was selected by the Marion County Milk Producers' association to be its spokesman.

In the meantime, the ordinance was acted upon by the city board of health and was defeated by a 3 to 2 vote.

Advocates Inspection

Throughout his talk, Mr. Zachman emphasized that he favors inspection of all dairy producing and distributing facilities and voiced the opinion that a good job is now being done. The milk sold in Marion he declared to be above the average of that sold anywhere in Ohio.

"It is not equipment, barns, improvements and milk houses that assures good milk—it is the man who produces it," he declared. "We are always striving for better milk—and it will be made better through those efforts." The live and keen competition between dairies in this locality give that assurance. As long as that competition exists, people of Marion do not need to be afraid of getting a poor quality of milk.

He related that when inspection methods first went into effect here, impurities were discovered and the conditions remedied. Now most of milk produced in this area will pass the most painstaking tests and analyses, Mr. Zachman told his audience.

Regarding Labels

Labels are not necessarily proof of a milk's quality, according to information given the Rotarians. The speaker said that on several occasions here, bottles containing Grade A and standard milk were submitted to official analysis after the labels had been removed.

"To my surprise," said Mr. Zachman, "the analysis showed that the standard milk should have been labeled Grade A and the Grade A should have been designated as either B or C."

Going into the subject from an economic standpoint, he said that the proposed code requirements would be unjust and unfair to producers—especially the smaller producers, many of whom would be forced out of business by being unable to buy the new equipment—but also to poor people of the community, most of whom have families and consequently need good quality of milk for their children.

"Under the proposed new code, milk would be graded A, B and C and naturally the higher grades would cost the most. What grade would the poor people be able to buy? Those with children necessarily would be compelled to take the inferior grades and that would mean insufficient nourishment," Mr. Zachman declared.

Cost of Equipment

For producers the expense of installing new equipment in the county was placed by the speaker at from $100,000 to $125,000, a figure arrived at, he said, through inquiry among well-informed authorities at Columbus. Virtually all, according to the producers' survey, would have had to build new milk houses and some of the smaller producers would have been forced out of business. This was the result in at least one community in the southeastern part of the state where the code was placed in effect. Mr. Zachman said, "These inquiries revealed that some had to quit business. It would mean more taxes, for the one inspector now employed."

AGOSTA ALUMNI PLAN

BANQUET, DANCE MAY 18

Saturday night, May 18, is the date set for the annual banquet and dance to be held by the New Bloomington High School Alumni association in the school gymnasium at Agosta. The officers and chairmen met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Vernon Imbody south of Agosta.

John Moore of Marion presided. Kenneth Kinsler is chairman of the entertainment committee and Mrs. Merwyn Harroff of Marion is in charge of plans. Refreshments will be in charge of a committee headed by Miss Mary Baxter of Agosta, and decorations will be arranged by Mrs. Fred Holverslott of Agosta, chairman, and her committee. Final plans will be made at a meeting May 13.

could not possibly handle the work, Mr. Zachman declared. "Let us apply the golden rule in this matter, and do unto the poor man as we would do to ourselves," he suggested.

The work-day of the milk producer is still a long one and would be made longer should the federal code requirements ever be adopted, Mr. Zachman stated. The average now was placed at 11 to 12 hours.

In beginning his talk he reviewed briefly his own experiences in the dairy business, how he started out as a young man by borrowing $1,000 and pulling through by hard work and long hours.

"I ask you, what chance would a young man today have to get started in the dairy business with that amount of capital? It would come nearer requiring $11,000," he said.

He expressed the opinion that the purpose of the federal code campaign is not aimed so much at improving the quality of milk as it is to spread propaganda and foster monopoly.

Mr. Zachman was introduced to the club by George E. Planch, Rotary club program chairman.

Guests of the club were Paul Lawrence of Marion and A. E. Schowling of Elroy, representative of the Western Automatic Machine Screw company.

MEAT DEALERS AND GROCERS TO ORGANIZE

Temporary Officers Named at Countywide Meeting.

Organization of a Marion county association to be affiliated with the National and Ohio Retail Grocers and Meat Dealers associations was launched last night with election of temporary officers at a meeting at Hotel Harding.

George Smith of 469 North Main street was elected chairman; Daniel Lawler of 217 Silver street, treasurer; and Harry Dreyer of 298 North Prospect street, secretary.

A nominating committee including George Bastian, Guy Schroeder and N. Manel was named to prepare for election of permanent officers.

The principal address was given by Homer N. McConkey of Springfield, secretary of the state association, who explained the workings of the state and national groups in detail.

Short talks were given by C. Z. Zachman of Marion and E. R. Gilliland of Columbus, field representative of the state association, who will be in Marion several days yet to assist in completing the organization.

The state and national association have as their purpose the betterment of the condition of members, protection against unfair legislation and generally assisting the members.

Approximately 30 retail grocers and wholesalers in the food line attended last night. The Marion county group will be known as the Marion County Grocers and Meat Dealers association.

Hi-Y Program.

First of a series of weekly morning worship services sponsored by the Girl Reserves and Hi-Y club of Harding High school, was conducted this morning from 7:50 to 8:15 at Central Christian church.

Principal K. H. Marshall gave his approval to the plan, which was developed by committees of members of the two groups.

Three hundred forty-eight young people and faculty members were present this morning. Mimeographed sheets of the order of service were distributed.

Rayon Smith, a senior, gave a talk on "The Reality of God," in which he said that all people and races through the centuries have had some kind of a religion, a groping after God. He said the young people they should regard God as their friend because "He wants to be if we will only ask Him."

Palpa Howard offered the closing prayer. Music included group singing of "True Hearted, Whole Hearted," and three organ selections by Mrs. Harry L. Bell, "Communion in G," by St. Clair, "Ave Maria," by Franz, and "Portiuncula," by De Monti.

Announcement will be made of the date and time of the next service.

Fire Chief's Car Now Hooked Up with Police Radio

The chief's car of the Marion fire department yesterday was equipped with a radio receiver tuned into the wave length of Station WJZ, Marion's exclusive police radio station.

The receiver, purchased from the Transmitter Equipment Manufacturing Co. of New York City, which installed the main transmitter equipment, will enable firemen on duty at a fire to receive messages from the police department and indirectly from firemen on duty at other stations.

Chief McFarland explained that the receiver will be extremely valuable to the department as a means of quick communication in the event a second or third fire breaks out while firemen are still at the scene of a first blaze. If an alarm is turned in while firemen are still working on another fire, the police department can broadcast the location of the second fire and the chief's car and possibly other equipment can be sent to the second fire promptly.

When these emergencies have arisen in the past it has been necessary to dispatch a radio-equipped police cruiser to notify the firemen of the second fire.

These also will be several other uses for the receiver, including use in connection with the department's inhalator and general emergency work. The equipment consists only of a receiver and provides only one-way transmission from the main transmitter in the police station to the car.

The receiver was purchased with proceeds from the second annual police and firemen's ball held last summer. Two-way equipment for two police cruisers, purchased from the same fund, is expected to arrive within a few days.

18 WORKERS STRIKE AT MARION FACTORY

Parleys of Wilson-Bohannon
Co. and Union Suspended.

Eighteen employees of the Wilson-Bohannon Co., Mound and Buckeye streets, instituted a strike at the plant this morning. The strike followed a suspension of negotiations between union employees and the company for a new contract to supplant one which expired March 31.

Union workers, members of Roosevelt Lodge No. 1281, an A. F. of L. affiliate, request either a five-cent an hour wage increase or a unionized shop. Company officials reported they are unable to meet the demands but that they are willing to continue negotiations.

Non-union employees of the company passed through picket lines when they reported for work at 7 a. m. The concern will continue curtailed operations, company officials reported. The company manufactures locks.

Next steps in the controversy either may be a resumption of negotiations or possible filing of a complaint with the national labor relations board, according to A. G. Skunder of New Castle, Pa., grand lodge representative, who has acted as spokesman for the union.

MARION CO. STUDENTS IN O. S. U. BROADCASTS

Two Marion county students at Ohio State university will have prominent parts in a series of programs to be broadcast over WOSU, the university radio station at 6:45 every Saturday night, starting this week.

Miss Elizabeth Johnson of Marion will be the violin soloist on the series. Miss Maxine Morral, student soprano from Morral, who has won recognition from Hal Kemp and other name band leaders for the popular melodies she has written, will be vocal soloist. Joseph Tague of New Lexington, O., who is majoring in music, will accompany the two girls on the piano.

FRIDAY TOPIC

"Give Us This Day" is the topic for a meeting of the Unity Center of Marion Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the City library. "Christian Healing" by Charles Fillmore forms a basis of study for the class meeting Friday at 2:30 p. m.

Labor Union Proposes City Limits Be Extended Mile To Boost Revenue

Also Urges Reappraisal of Property To Relieve Financial Difficulties; Reasons Listed.

Proposals that the corporation limits of the city be extended approximately one mile and that property now located in the city be reappraised to increase the city's tax revenue were made by the Marion Central Labor Union at a meeting Tuesday night.

Following a discussion of civic affairs, the union members unanimously adopted a resolution prepared by the executive committee in which the two proposals were made. Plans were made to have the resolution printed and distributed to city officials and members of city council.

Something for Nothing

During discussion of the proposals, members of the central union, who are delegates of all of the A. F. of L. unions in the city, expressed the opinion that owners of several properties situated just outside the present boundaries are receiving fire and police protection as well as other benefits from the city without contributing toward the operating expenses of the city government.

With the increased tax revenue, several members declared, the city would be able to finance its relief program without a tax levy and also would be able to provide numerous civic improvements, including new equipment for the fire department, a municipal swimming pool and elimination of grade crossings, which have all been urged by the labor union for several months.

The resolution, prepared by the executive committee composed of J. J. Zuck, Clifford Welch, C. A. Bolin, C. W. Davidson, Ray Beverly, Merle Mason and George Fetter, follows:

"Whereas, the City of Marion faces a serious problem of devising ways to secure finances to carry on the most necessary governmental functions, such as police and fire protection, street cleaning and improvement of the city parks, etc., to say nothing of the added burden of unemployment, and

"Whereas, the citizens of Marion have by vote decided against a tax levy to provide additional money for the needs of the city, such levy being the only lawful method the city can use to provide additional funds by property tax, based on the present property valuation, and

"Whereas, the Marion Central Labor Union is opposed to the enactment of an occupational tax, or the issuance of bonds, to meet the present needs for additional funds, but believes instead, that the city council has the lawful authority to enact legislation extending the boundaries of the city to include a number of businesses and establishments which are now outside the corporation limits, but do receive aid and protection from the city of Marion, and, the Marion Central Labor Union also believes that the recent street improvement, new school buildings, etc. have greatly increased the valuation of Marion real estate over the valuation at the time of the last reappraisal, and which if re-

PROGRAM FEATURES PARTY HELD AT LEGION DUGOUT

Includes Talk on Child Welfare Work Given by Judge Gast.

About eighty-five men and women attended the party given last night at the Legion Dugout by men of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, for the women of the auxiliary.

The guests were welcomed by the post chaplain, Ivan Johnson. Mrs. T. E. Kinner, president of the auxiliary, responded on behalf of the women.

A feature of the entertainment was a comedy skit, "Exalted Man Cave Lodge No. 23," presented by Elmer Bondage, Ralph E. Carhart, D. E. Montgomery, Deputy Sheriff William Willis, R. G. Williamson and Anson Pickrel.

Probate Judge Oscar Gast gave a talk on the child welfare work being done in the county, in keeping with the Legion observance of April as "child welfare month."

Short talks were given by Mr. Willis, former county commander, and his successor, Walter Behner. Entertainment was in charge of W. E. Douce, second vice commander.

In a brief opening session, after which business was dispensed with, it was reported that the post has exceeded its membership quota of 234. It was reported that two members, Parks Kennedy and Bert Paschall are in the veterans' hospital at Dayton and that another member, J. P. Sharkey, is in City hospital here.

8 ET 40 TO SEND GROUP TO COLUMBUS MEETING

Marion Saloon No. 231, 8 et 40, voted to send a representative to Columbus Saturday and Sunday for a child welfare meeting, when members met Monday night with Mrs. Vena Miller of North State street. The week-end conference will be sponsored by the American Legion and the Ohio Probation association and will be held at the Dasher-Wallick hotel. The salon will observe child welfare month. Mrs. Mary Napier gave a report of child welfare work done at Easter.

A committee composed of Mrs. Mary Napier, chairman, Mrs. Ines Eikenberry and Mrs. Margaret Morrison was appointed to arrange for a card party in the near future. Mrs. Beulah Bending won a special award. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

BAPTIST GROUP TO GO TO STATE CONVENTION

Arrangements were made for about 25 girls to attend the state Wide guild convention at Wilmington April 19-21 when the council of the Marion Baptist Association of guilds met last night with Mrs. Walter C. Haldeman of 552 North Greenwood street.

New members welcomed into the council are Mrs. Helen Hickman, president of the Live Wire guild of Fife Memorial church; Miss Mary Catherine Byers, counselor of Trinity Lily guild of Trinity church, and Miss Rachel Callahan of Trinity church, education director of the association for the coming year.

Mrs. Charles Kirby, associational secretary, led in prayer and gave a resume of activities. Tentative plans were discussed for a week-end house party some time in June. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Byers.

Thieves touching automobiles equipped with a device invented by a resident of Idaho, N. Y., receive severe electric shocks.

LUTHERAN GROUP TO MEET

Monthly business meeting of Sunday school officers and teachers of Emanuel Lutheran church will be held Thursday night at 8:15 at the church. The Junior Lutheran league will meet tonight at 7:30 at the church. Rev. M. E. Hollensen, pastor, will resume catechetical classes Saturday.

YOUTH HELD HERE AS PROBATION VIOLATOR

Theft Suspect To Be Turned Back to Court.

Lowell Dickinson, 20, of 336 Fahy street, who police say admitted an $11.05 theft from the Home Sandwich shop on North Main street early Monday, was held at the county jail today as a probation violator.

Police Chief Marks said he originally planned to charge Dickinson with breaking and entering but changed his plans when he learned Dickinson had been placed on a one-year probation by Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young when he pleaded guilty to a grand larceny charge last January. Judge Young is out of the city but court officials said Dickinson will be taken before him on a probation violation charge as soon as he returns.

Dickinson, the husband of an employee at the sandwich shop, was arrested Monday by officers investigating the break-in and police said he admitted the theft after several hours questioning. Later he took the officers to his home where he had hidden the money, they said.

Capt. E. C. Mackan quoted Dickinson as saying he helped his wife close the sandwich shop about 3 a. m. and left the back door open. Then he took his wife home and without her knowledge returned to the sandwich shop alone and stole the money from the cash drawer. He was quoted as stating, Capt. Mackan said the investigation indicated that after taking the money, Dickinson

FAREWELL PARTY HELD AT BAPTIST GUILD MEETING

Mrs. Vance Hadden, whose husband has been transferred to the Montgomery Ward & Co. store in Bowling Green, was given a farewell party Monday night at the home of Mrs. Walter Haldeman of North Greenwood street by the Trinity Baptist church.

The evening was spent socially and Mrs. Hadden was presented a gift. Identity of her "secret sister" was revealed in another farewell gift. The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Donald Tower, Mrs. Glen Patten and Mrs. Louise Somerlot.

GREENWOOD P.T.A. HEARS TALK BY REV. HOLLENSON

Rev. M. E. Hollensen of Emanuel Lutheran church spoke on "Keeping Family Life Stimulated" at the Greenwood Parent-Teacher association meeting last night at the school.

A cantata, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," was sung by the fifth and sixth grade choruses. A report on the recent district conference at Mansfield was made by the delegate, Mrs. H. E. Dracy. Mothers of first grade pupils were hostesses. Presiding at the serving table were Mrs. Howard Geer, room mother, and Miss Ruth Edwards, first grade teacher. The attendance award was won by the sixth grade.

Traffic Engineering Seen As Guarantee of Safety

Another of a series of talks given at the seminar on traffic engineering in Columbus, Ohio, by Bob Byrd as a representative of The Star.

By BOB BYRD.

Three major traffic problems — enforcement, education and engineering — the latter being the most dramatic and difficult.

Nothing very interesting about enforcing traffic laws, but when it comes to building highways and four-lane roads.

Cassy Stomach Relieved

OR MONEY BACK

Every person who is troubled with cassy gas in the stomach and bowels should get a package of Bismarck's Gas Tablets and try them for a few days.

Sharp pains in the abdomen are often due entirely to gas pressure. Many persons occasionally have an upset or cassy stomach, heartburn, belching, flatulence, nausea, bloating, dizziness, after meals headache, distended abdomen, burping or other symptoms due to accumulated gas in the stomach or bowels.

Bismarck's Gas Tablets are made especially for the relief of excess gas in the stomach and bowels. They contain no drugs. Sold on a positive guarantee of money back if they fail to give satisfaction within 10 days. Get a package at any good drug store.

Get Bismarck's Gas Tablets at Hennessey & Co., Inc., 249 West Center St., Marion, Ohio.

ver, elevated crossings of main traffic arteries, people begin thinking about the highways of tomorrow and traffic safety starts approaching the realm of scientific fiction.

Traffic experts call super-highways "limited ways," and the cost of this type of construction is approximately $1,000,000 a mile or slightly more. Despite this terrific cost, they predict that limited ways will eventually be common because of the way they simplify the traffic problem.

The first big thing they do is eliminate the pedestrian problem by making it almost physically impossible for pedestrians to get on the pavement. Underpasses and overhead crossings are provided for pedestrians.

Barriers to Accidents

Secondly, physical barriers are placed between streams of traffic moving in opposite directions. The limited ways actually represent two one-way highways placed side by side but definitely separated by a physical barrier. This naturally takes a long step toward the elimination of collisions.

Limited ways either eliminate or greatly reduce the danger of intersection collisions by four-lane clover type of construction. In this, one highway is elevated over another at the point of intersection, and wide loops at each of the four corners of the crossing take care of vehicles making turns at the intersection.

Successfully Tested

The limited ways have already proved useful in several metropolitan areas, handling large volumes of traffic at high speeds over routes that formerly had become death traps. In building limited ways, engineers make use of every known method to move traffic quickly and safely, and reduce the causes of accidents to a minimum.

Limited ways in cities are designed to permit through traffic to move without slowing its pace and at the same time to handle much of the outlying and suburban traffic on its way to and from the heart of the city, including city buses. Traffic can leave the limited way at several points in the uptown district, but is free from dangerous crossings that characterize the typical up-town street.

Limited ways, however, aren't the only concerns of traffic engineers, because they realize it will be years before many cities can build many miles of them. They concern themselves with a multitude of other engineering approaches to the problem. For one thing, they're trying to standardize traffic lights and highway and street signs to make it as easy as possible for motorists to do the right thing. They have found that traffic lights often are installed at intersections where the problem is made worse rather than helped by the lights. They have found many other examples of bad markings—for example, a pedestrian lane across streets that isn't visible to drivers until they're too close to stop their speed or come to a stop.

Use of Meters

Parking meters are a tool of traffic engineering, and one of the seminar experts was asked for his opinion on the usefulness of meters. His answer was: "Wherever you see double line parking, it indicates a need for finer enforcement because double line parking causes hazards and congestion. However, parking meters shouldn't be looked on as a cash register for a municipality. They simply eliminate the necessity of the marking, eliminate arguments between drivers and enforcement officers and furnish undisputed evidence of a violation. Meters chase out the all-day parkers, sometimes they eliminate congestion and double line parking but their effect on reducing accidents is limited. In other words, the same corrections can be made without the meters provided a city has the manpower to do a good enforcement job."

The safety of pedestrians is one of the big concerns of traffic engineers because pedestrians figure in a large percentage of accidents. When engineers come to an intersection where pedestrians have to cross a large paved area, they recommend installation of islands that split up the long crossing into several short ones. An example of this on Washington street at Delaware avenue and State street where pedestrians have a long distance to travel without any intermediate point where they can stop in safety.

Most of the engineering remedies involve expense, but engineers contend that much could be done if the funds ordinarily devoted to streets and highways were used in the right way. Also, they argue that the remedies don't cost any more than the lost lives, injuries and property damage that result from accidents.

The following officers were elected: Harry Boyd of LaRue, president; Guy Smith of Agostia, vice president; Fred Rush of LaRue, secretary; Carl Whitman of LaRue, recording secretary; George Raub of LaRue, treasurer; Andy Ford of LaRue, publicity secretary.

The club was organized to create public interest and strengthen the party in the vicinity of LaRue.

MISSIONARY GROUPS OF DISTRICT MEET

Marion, Upper Sandusky and Bucyrus Represented.

Evangelical churches in Marion, Bucyrus and Upper Sandusky were represented at a Woman's Missionary society rally and young people's missionary circle meeting yesterday and last night at Oakland Evangelical church.

About 175 persons were in attendance last night. The afternoon session drew approximately 125 women and there were about 90 at the morning session.

Rev. Ira Wilson of Defiance, O., a graduate of the Evangelical mission school in Kentucky, was the principal speaker. He talked briefly at the morning session on the meaning and importance of the Woman's Missionary society and in the afternoon he gave an account of his home life as a boy, his contact with the mission school and what the mission school had meant in his life. Last night he showed pictures of mission work in Kentucky and gave a talk explaining the work. Rev. Wilson is a graduate of the Evangelical Theological seminary at Naperville, Ill.

"Follow Thou Me" was the theme of the meeting. Devotions at the morning session were in charge of the women of Salem church at Beech, east of Marion. Mrs. B. Law of Brokenwood gave a talk on "Release of Power Through Prayer" and Mrs. Lois Long of Bucyrus First church gave a demonstration, "The Voice of Experience." A play, "Do You Have It?" was presented by the society of Calvary church of Marion. Dinner was served at the Oakland parsonage. Mrs. O. C. Ours of Marion Greenwood church conducted devotions at the afternoon. A play, "Samplers of Stewardship — Through Television," was given by the women of Upper Sandusky Trinity church. Women of Bucyrus Zion church furnished music.

Greater Number Reduces Funeral Costs

The annual cost of maintaining a funeral home, with only necessary help and equipment, is well into the thousands of dollars. The patrons pay the expense.

People are learning that they get better service and usually at less cost, from a funeral home serving many. That is one reason why more families are choosing this organization.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1940

Marion's New School Head

THE city board of education has acted wisely in making an early selection of the man who is to be the next superintendent of Marion's schools. This prompt action will give the new executive ample time for preparation and to become thoroughly familiar with the local school program before entering upon his actual duties of management.

It is evident, also, that the choice was a good one. Mr. Holt has a background of education and experience which obviously qualifies him admirably for the work here and with wholehearted support from other school officials and employees, as well as from people of the community, there is every reason to believe that his administration should be one of outstanding success.

He will start under most favorable auspices. His election by a unanimous vote of the board from a list of 55 competent school men considered for the position is evidence that he is held in high regard by all the board members and that they stand ready to give him undivided cooperation. Maintenance of that relationship will do more than anything else to assure satisfactory conduct of the schools and steady advancement of the city's educational system during the coming years.

That Living Room Problem

FACED with the tremendous fact that Communism has been spread entirely around the Pacific sea and that the dictatorial front attaches from the toe of the Italian boot to the crown of the Scandinavian hat, Americans can't be expected to muster much more than an awed "Gosh!"

They are more than ever impressed with the speed and precision of the military machine developed in Germany. While their confidence in its ultimate destruction is not as yet shaken seriously, they are ready to admit it gained the jump on the opposition with occupation of the Rhineland and has been in control of the situation ever since.

Nevertheless, at the moment of the latest Nazi coup, which has destroyed the independence of Denmark and apparently has put Norway in a dilemma from which it cannot escape, it is as true as it ever was that Germany is its own worst enemy. Its political and economic problems have increased with each new accession of territory.

It has accumulated, to use its own expression, "living room." In so doing it has accumulated millions of hostile subjects who will know no peace till they have crushed the master that enslaved them. It stands ready, moreover, to accumulate still more space and population, still using force, still carried away by the hope that a greater Germany can be carved out of Europe with a sword.

The Danes, the Norwegians, the Swedes, the Poles, the Czechoslovak groups and the Austrians are neither Germans nor Nazis. If the threat to make them all subject races is carried out—if the Allies cannot keep Germany out of Scandinavia—the reich will have gathered itself the greatest minority problem in history. Ultimately, the problem would prove greater than Germany. It is difficult indeed to decide whether the swift blow in the north, which may make Scandinavia a battlefield, is another triumph for Hitlerism or the beginning of its downfall.

We Know, Teacher

JOHN T. FLYNN'S easy-to-understand explanations of economic mysteries have helped many Americans over rough spots in the last few years. When he starts to ask questions, instead of giving answers, perhaps he has something in mind.

Why, he asks in a recent article, do three Chicago banks have more than a billion dollars in cash lying unused? Why do business men refuse to use vast resources of credit in these—and other—banks?

It may be naive for a hinterland editor to raise his hand and say he knows the answer, but probably Teacher Flynn planned it that way. Men and corporations borrow money for expansion and promotion of new products when they have confidence. They do not borrow money when they have doubt.

There is no mystery in accumulation of money in banks and trust funds, or in the refusal to government bonds. Would-be borrowers simply aren't going to go into debt until convinced they have something better than a fighting chance to get out of debt. Only government dares to mortgage the future without figuring the risk—and government dares too much.

Business borrowers will put money to work and make the wheels of industry hum a livelier tune when they are given assurance of continued freedom, release from strictures, relief from consuming taxation, cessation of bureaucratic threats—in short when the startling signal is given with one magic word—Confidence.

Is that what Mr. Flynn wanted someone to say?

News Behind the News

British Believed Caught Napping in Latest Move of Nazi Forces.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The British were caught asleep at the post again. Official inside information here indicates they had at least a three-day advance tip of Hitler's intent to transport his troops 300 and more miles across the sea to invade Scandinavia and they were unable to do anything effective to stop it.

The reason: Germany had shrewdly cut off the British fleet from the Skagerrak by laying heavy mines in the field, southward from a point near the Norwegian coast west of Kristiansand. This fresh field connected with the old German field off the north Danish coast running down to Holland. It barricaded Germany's several avenues straight north against every British except the most daring submarines.

British laying of three fields north of Bergen had nothing to do with the German move except to serve as a feeble post mortem excuse. Nor did the then emerging British plan to go into northern Norway by force and establish air bases (an intention which has not yet been publicly recorded in view of Chamberlain's denial) spur the Germans to action.

Prepared for Months

This new Hitler venture was certainly in preparation for months. Chamberlain was right. It could not have been organized in shorter time. Precision of the marching tables, concentration and collection of troops, transports and supplies betrays weeks of unrelenting arrangement.

It was timed to take advantage of the thawing of ice in the Skagerrak rather than anything else.

This blitz-coup in Scandinavia is, therefore, regarded by all American officialdom as a German empire expansion venture in a new form. It is recognized as ultimate proof of an agreement between Stalin and Hitler for division of spheres of influence in Scandinavia. Berlin excuses that Germany is only offering armed protection to friends are accepted nowhere in view of their similarity to excuses offered in Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Relief Budget

Even the strongest congressional economists like Conductor Woodrum of the house appropriations committee privately believe the Roosevelt budget cut on relief is too severe in view of recent business developments. Mr. Roosevelt in executive conferences with his house and senate leaders, is understood to have told them to go ahead and increase his $983,000,000 estimate if they wish. He would prefer to have the $983,000,000 without the old Woodrum amendment requiring it to be spread out through 12 months, in order that a higher rate of monthly expenditure could be made as needed. Then when the $983,000,000 runs out next winter, he or his successor could seek additional funds.

Either way it is apparent that the government is falling into a serious financial situation. It is obvious the debt limit will have to be increased by next winter at the latest. The prospect is so clear that Mr. Woodrum and some of his house economizing associates who formerly opposed lifting the debt limit, are now talking about meeting the situation straight and increasing the limit before adjournment.

Signs
Top floor Republicans have changed their minds and now doubt that Mr. Roosevelt will try it. They so read certain signs of the past few weeks.

First Mrs. Roosevelt has signed to broadcast twice a week for Sweetheart Jolly Soap (proceeds to the praiseworthy American Friends service committee). The politicians doubt that Mrs. Roosevelt would have made a contact if a campaign were in prospect.

Secondly, Mr. Roosevelt acted anything but a candidate in his handling of the Hull-Farley story. The President let a press yarn stand for two weeks that he approved Hull and disapproved Farley before making his denial. Candidates are always more alert, especially that candidate.

Thirdly, practically no one here believes Farley would now be campaigning openly unless he knew Roosevelt did not intend to battle against him.

McNitt Trouble

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau was supposed to offer a clean bill of tax health to social scientist Paul McNitt. The internal revenue bureau officials had recommended such action. Morgenthau declined because strict interpretation of the law precludes such statements. Nevertheless McNitt will have no further treasury trouble.

All the inside trouble he has had so far will be exposed if the now emerging $233,000 case against Bowman Elder, eminent Indianapolis political associate of McNitt, goes to trial. (Exclusively forecast in this spot.) The attorney whom he has employed to resist the claim is Harry B. Suller.

Farm Bill

It does not show on the record but the house agriculture committee has learned that the new credit ensemble bill being sponsored by the Farmers Union (and likely to pass congress) is the handiwork of left wing groups in the agriculture department. They wrote it in cooperation with the union and sold it to Agriculture Secretary Wallace.

Committee evidence indicates one-third of the farms in the United States might eventually find their way into government hands under the bill.

Governor Nearing 81

Michigan Executive Says His Plan Is To "Live Young."

By CLINTON GREEN
International News Service
Correspondent

LANSING, Mich., April 10.—If life begins at 40, then Gov. Lauren D. Dickinson of Michigan is doubly prepared.

The militant state executive, who took over the national spotlight last summer with a blistering attack on the "sinful life" of New York, prepared quietly to celebrate his eighty-first birthday on April 15.

How to feel eight though 80 was explained by the governor who has already indicated he will campaign actively for reelection this fall.

The process is simple—keep close to young people. Said the governor:

"I have simply lived as young a life as possible by keeping contact with young people and their endless chatter. Any one can exercise control over getting old."

"Just keep as close to the young folks as possible."

Office Help Youthful
And by looking about his office, the evidence is visible. Five of the seven stenographers and typists are under the age of 23. He recently added an "autograph secretary" still in her teens, to his staff.

The governor, who conducts a weekly Bible class in his home town of Charlotte, added:

"I keep as close to young people as possible. My church work helps make this possible. I wouldn't go on a trip without at least one young person."

Time to retire? Not for Governor Dickinson, dean of the nation's governors.

In Office a Year
On March 17 he completed a year in office, assuming the gubernatorial robes on the death of Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald. He had held the office of lieutenant governor for several years without making an active campaign for the post.

Dickinson took the oath of office in the living room of his farm home while Mrs. Dickinson, ill with influenza, watched from her bed in the adjoining room.

A few days later the new gov-

ernor preached his famous sermon in which he said that he had "a pipe-line to God" and would seek Divine guidance in every task as the state's chief executive.

What may be an insight into certain hidden phases of the governor's character might be gathered from a statement issued to Mrs. Evelyn E. Collins, a palmist who was allowed to read the governor's palm.

Comments of Findings
The governor has not entirely dismissed the findings of Mrs. Collins for when asked if he believed in palmistry, he said:

"I don't see what basis there is for it. I can't understand it. But she (Mrs. Collins) did pretty well reading Mrs. Dickinson's hand. She got several things pretty close to right."

The palmist asserted the governor was a literary genius and positively would be the loser if he does not weave his dreams into a work of literary art.

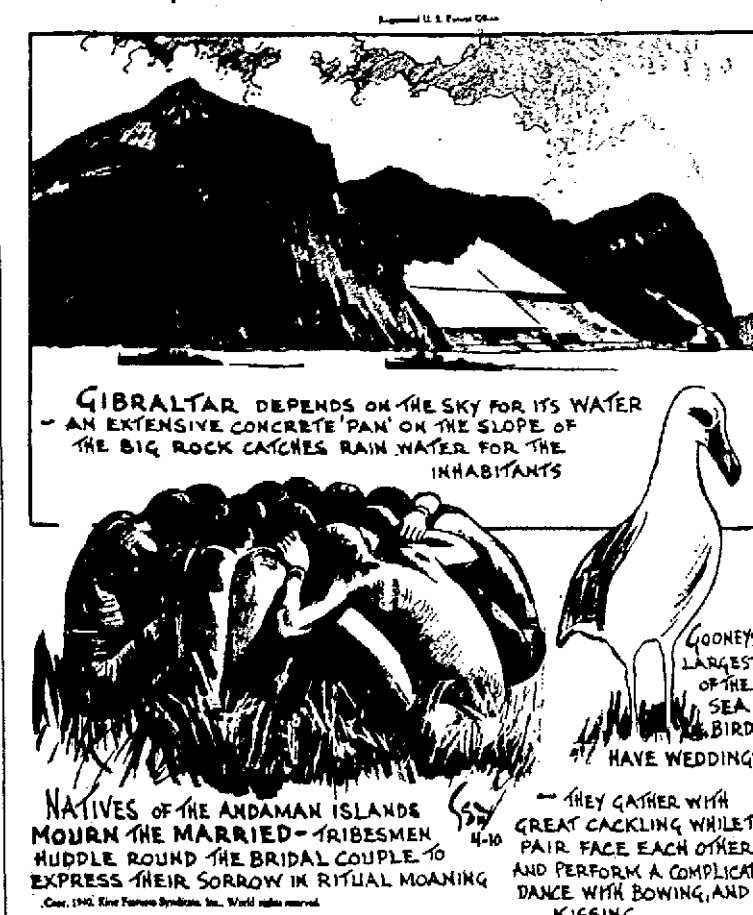

Wrote Mrs. Collins:

"You haven't achieved all that you are capable of achieving. Don't close this book of life until you have written two things—one something satirical. Let the other be your dreams."

"What you write today will be treasured years from now."

While his blast against "life in the big city" which was also coupled with an attack on the conduct of individuals at the annual conference of governors in Albany, N. Y., alienated certain groups, it

Gold Piling Up in U.S.

We'll Corner World Supply in 3 Years—Unless

AND all that gold buried in Kentucky—what's going to be done about that?

This question, asked again and again by the "uninformed," lately has begun to perplex officialdom, too.

Two-thirds of the monetary gold in the world is held by the United States. If the government continues to acquire gold at its present rate, it will have the available supply cornered in three years.

Steady flow of gold to this country has been a major factor in forcing every other major country in the world to abandon a free gold standard. The United States holds vastly more than enough of the metal to provide backing for its currency. Gold certificates issued against the supply have piled up as excess bank reserves, furnishing a legal basis for expansion of bank credit up to a trillion dollars.

Value of the gold depends entirely on discovery of a way to restore it as an international basis of value. It is a problem in international relations as well as national and international finance. As Berlin, assistant secretary of state, has suggested that within a few years this country actually may find it expedient to give away portions of its gold to restore an international monetary mechanism for world trade.

Sen. Thomas of Oklahoma has introduced a bill to authorize the United States to lend gold to central banks of other countries in the hope of reestablishing an international gold standard.

Restoration of the standard is impossible, however, without removal of arbitrary trade barriers.

Gold would have no secure place in a world where international trade was conducted by barter, or restricted by embargoes or prohibitive tariffs.

One of the chief obstacles to a return to the gold standard, it follows, is the unwillingness of major powers to give up control over their internal price levels which they have gained by the monetary authority exercised by their central banks.

AS possessor of the major part of the world's gold stock, the United States necessarily must take the lead in any move for restoration of a gold standard. No other power could afford to return to gold without a definite understanding as to what the United States intends to do.

The alarming fact is that no one knows what the United States intends to do, including the United States. Its gold policy is as much a mystery at home as it is abroad.

Announced reason for President Roosevelt's decision to revalue the dollar soon after taking office in 1933 was desire to raise commodity prices; cheapening United States exports in foreign markets was a secondary consideration.

The President was influenced by the theory that commodity prices could be controlled by currency manipulation. No overt move toward inflation was taken during the summer of 1933, but the dollar continued a general downward course in foreign exchange markets.

Finally, in October, the President revealed that the amount of depreciation still was not satisfactory: "The United States must take firmly in its own hands the control of the gold value of our dollar," he said.

is doubtful if the governor suffered any material loss in his political standing. He is known for his sincerity, his Republican party followers are loud in their praise for his policies and political quarters believe he will be a hard man to beat if he definitely decides to seek reelection.

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, April 10, 1930. Col. Paul V. McNitt, former national commander of the American Legion, dean of Indiana university school of law at Bloomington, Ind., and colonel in the U. S. Army reserve corps, was chosen to deliver the Memorial day address in Marion.

Hoke Donithen, new president of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, was speaker at a meeting of the Marion Central Labor Union and urged harmony and cooperation between Marion workers and employers.

Mrs. Jane Britton Kerr, 73, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jennie Racy, at Little Sandusky.

Frank Wiedemann, exalted ruler of Marion Lodge of Elks, appointed Jesse Kleinmaier esquire and Harry Ackerman inner guard.

Fred E. Guthery gave a talk to members of the Meridian club at the Y. M. C. A. on the subject of "Thrill."

A bridge party was given by Gamma Mu chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority, at Ringer's inn. Guests were Misses Helen Kreps, Dorothy Zieg, Thelma Barton, Vivian Rettig, Margaret Tracht and Virginia Wilson and Mrs. Paul Piersol.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, April 10, 1920. Senator Warren G. Harding ended his first Indiana tour as a Republican presidential candidate, speaking at a party rally in Huntington.

A railroad strike was spreading throughout the country and had resulted in a shipping embargo at many points, including Marion, where only local freight was being handled.

Mrs. Caroline Orians, widow of Henry Orians, died at her home on Jefferson street at the age of 79.

The feature picture at the Marion theater was "The Miracle Man."

Miss Vera Power and Wilbur A. Wiegand, both of Marion, were united in marriage by Dr. Jesse Swank at the Epworth M. E. parsonage.

Miss Mary M. Rentschler and Edward W. Knappenberger, both of Waldo, were united in marriage by Rev. C. W. Helwig at his home on South Prospect street.

Brooklyn Murder Syndicate

lived in Catching Them Young —And It Got Results.

By DAMON RUNYON

IN THE days when underworld gang were the vogue, we were inclined to think they had their certain value. They tended toward eradication of many unworthy characters who might otherwise have continued to be a pain in the neck. They eliminated expenses and the burden of maintenance.

We were always a little bit reticent about our opinion, however. We realized it would be doomed caloused by tender-hearted persons. While they might deplore the spectacle of honest burghers going about with busted skulls due to the exuberance of the unworthy characters aforesaid, they nevertheless felt that cracked craniums were preferable to a landscape festooned with cadavers, monogrammed with machine gun bullets, ice picks, etc.

Then, too, we realized that gang indicated a flagrant disrespect of law that was undesirable, though we sometimes thought that the law showed disrespect for itself by permitting the existence of the gangs. That opinion is being confirmed in part by the revelation in Brooklyn of the redoubtable Bill O'Dwyer who is going to get himself talked about governor if he does not watch out.

Bill O'Dwyer is the Brooklyn district attorney who is turning up the operations of a dime-a-dozen murder industry in his borough. Perhaps William would not be so imprudent if he knew how many movie scripts based on his activities are now in preparation on Hollywood. He may wind up being impaled on the screen by Warren Williams. We do not say this with any thought of intimating Mr. O'Dwyer into shortening sail. Still, a wisp of the woe ought to be sufficient.

THE youth of the members of the Brooklyn murder mob is a matter of some comment. It reminds us of the weird rumors we heard along Broadway a few years ago of the last, big gang war was in progress. Rather, it seemed more of a mopping up of a war. There was not much fight left on side.

It came after the lush prohibition era when the mob business was on the wane, and it did not appear to be much of anything to rebel about. It must have been based on old enmities. It seemed aimed specifically at the late Dutch Schultz and all his Broadway affiliates, once prosperous, but in reduced circumstances. Their breweries, hotels and night clubs were gone, or at least low ebb. Their rackets were crippled.

Of a sudden, a sort of blitzkrieg befell swiftly erased some more or less well known figures along Broadway and drove others hiding, among them Schultz. They came with the Dutchman and a batch of his kinsmen one night in Newark, but before some lesser characters were eliminated in the concealment elsewhere in New Jersey in the Catskills and even out on the P coast.

It was a mysterious bolt; all the more quieting because parties no one knew said to be doing the jobs. It was reported came out of Brooklyn, but that was not true. They left no addresses. They rapidly and struck with startling accuracy Broadway mobsters had grown old and had no triggers left around them to with this new lightning, so they just went into retirement.

BUT there seemed to be no hiding from strangers. One Broadway fellow who supposed to be as tough and shifty as come went up into the neighborhood of ham and was leading the quiet, simple characteristic of these parts, thinking that matter where they looked for him it would not be in Pelham. They found him just same.

This incident made something of an impression on us at the time. We felt that a smart enough to find a tough guy in P was gifted with superior intelligence. It was one reason why we scouted the fact that we commenced to hear along Broadway that the new destroyers were mere juveniles. Yes, sir, just little betsy kids, while the observers of the Broadway scene, eyes. They look like school children, can a guy ever figure he is going to get off by a little betsy kid? It ain't regular.

WELL, as fantastic and improbable rumors seemed at the time, it now appears from Bill O'Dwyer's problems that they were something to them. Some of the members of the dime-a-dozen murder operation now arrested must have been quite youthful in appearance at the period of the crimes of which they are accused. It seems to have been policy of the master minds of the syndicate catch their killers as young as possible.

It is an almost unbelievable tale that O'Dwyer is unfolding. He is entitled to credit for his revelations, especially if it turns in the face of our hint that Williams may impersonate him on the scene or it might be Don Ameche.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

When Gen. William Henry Harrison commanded the Army of the North in 1812, not only Detroit but Mackinac, C and Meumee were in British hands.

He was to transport a considerable across Ohio and obtain military stores, food and, in addition to training the army. His initial mistake probably was his to popular campaign for a victory, thereby taking a campaign which would have taxed some veterans.

General Winchester moved forward to Frenchtown, where he and his were taken by General Proctor, British leader. Harrison wintered his army newly-erected Fort Meigs on the rapids.

This campaign convinced Harrison that Lake Erie must precede further offensive tactics. Commodore Perry's victory in 1813, gave the United States control, and two weeks Fort Detroit was captured.

Harding Gridders Book Pair of Spring Practice Games With Mansfield

First "All in Fun" Scrap Set Friday; Eighty Prexies Out for Warm-Ups.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

MARION HARDING'S spring football practice, now moving through the third week, will include a brace of home-and-home practice games with Mansfield, Coach Bill Williams announced today.

The Presidents will travel to Mansfield, Friday afternoon, and will entertain the Tygers a week later at the local field. Arrangements for the competition between the schools were made by Coach Williams and Paul Snyder, Mansfield mentor.

It isn't likely that the games will have much more than a slight resemblance to regulation contests, since both tutors will be interested in trying various formations and testing their proteges against foreign foes. They will be wide open to the public, however, since a state athletic department ruling prohibits charging admission for spring football contests.

80 Hopefuls Out

Harding's squad, numbering in the neighborhood of 80 athletes, has seen considerable action since practice opened three weeks back. A large amount of time has been spent on fundamentals, but lately each workout has been climaxed with scrimmage.

In the group of Williams' prospects are six lettermen, all line-men, with the exception of one. Others include athletes who saw some action in varsity games last season and still others who have yet to get their baptism in scholastic grid warfare. Many ninth graders, now enrolled in the city's three junior high schools, are working out with the squad since they will become eligible when they enroll at Harding next fall. Returning members of Harding's unbeaten championship team are Warren Ferguson, halfback, Pete Basco, tackle, Wayne Short, guard, Howard Richardson and Owen Cresson, ends and King Keller, center. Around them will be constructed the team that carries Harding's banner in 1940. Only possible change in their position is the switching of Basco to the backfield. Williams has been using him frequently as a blocking back, but he probably will be returned to the line if others develop as expected.

The 1940 schedule already consists of eight games and Williams is anxious to fill an open date to start the season Sept. 13. At present the first game on the card calls for Tiffin Columbian to visit here Sept. 19. The Tiffin school is the only addition to Harding's list of foes, while both Upper Sandusky and Delaware Mills have been dropped.

The complete schedule, as it now stands, is: Sept. 20, Tiffin Columbian; Sept. 27, at Piquette; Oct. 4, Ashland; Oct. 11, Toledo; Oct. 18, at Bucyrus; Oct. 25, Gallon; Nov. 1, Shelby; Nov. 8, at Mt. Vernon.

VITT WORRIES OVER LACK OF BIG GUNS

Tribal Chief Not Sure About Power of Outfield.

CLEVELAND, April 10.—With opening day near Manager Oscar Vitt of the Indians has expressed concern over his lack of power hitters.

If the Redskins fail to get necessary slugging this season, the brunt of the blame will fall on the outfield which originally produces a good share of the extra-base blows.

Vitt has named Jeff Heath, Roy Weatherly and Ben Chapman as his starting gardeners, with Beau Bell and Clarence Campbell in reserve. Heath is the only one of the five rated a consistent long-distance hitter.

The outfield "weakness" contrasts sharply with the 1939 opening when the Indian roster listed six experienced fly chasers, including four players who slammed many extra-base blows.

Heath, Weatherly and Chapman remain hot. Earl Averill, Julius Sulters and Bruce Campbell have been traded or sold.

Injuries Plague Majors

Many Key Men on Sick List as Teams Prepare To Start New Season.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Injuries, which have decided as many of baseball's pennant races as any 350 hitters, aren't waiting until the major league season opens to get in their deadly licks.

As the St. Louis Cardinals group northward two key men in the Redbirds' National league plans are convalescing in St. Louis. They are first baseman Johnny Mize and second baseman-shortstop-third baseman (nobody knows which) Jimmy Brown. Both have knee troubles.

Jimmy Dykes, who had figured the Chicago White Sox infield woes were whipped, has had to install rookie Bob Kennedy at third base and send Eric McNair to second because Jackie Hayes has an eye infection.

Lou Boudreau chipped a bone in his ankle three weeks ago and just when he felt ready to go back to work the Cleveland Indians lost, at least temporarily, the services of southpaw pitcher Al Milnar and righthander Mel Harder.

The Philadelphia Athletics have been without Bob Johnson almost all spring.

Rookie Dom DiMaggio of the Boston Red Sox sprained his ankle sliding; Manager Joe Cronin contracted a bad cold; Jim Tabor cut his hand and Ted Williams sprained his wrist. Joe Gordon of the Yankees has a chafe home.

The bottom is slipping out of the Brooklyn Dodgers' stock because Manager Leo Durocher's throwing arm was hurt. Rookie Peevess Reese, his understudy at shortstop, has been injured twice. Charlie Gehringer, the great aging second baseman of the Detroit Tigers, has a lame back that says was caused by shoveling snow during the winter.

NEILSON NOW AT TOLEDO
TOLEDO, O., April 10.—Byron Nelson dropped his golf clubs in a corner of the pro shop at Inverness today and hoped his next post as a journeyman of the links would "bring a little rest." The 1939 National Open King complained he was tired, observing he found winter competition far from refreshing.

One-Time Hunter with Bow and Arrow Now Has Fun Playing "Archery Golf"

AP Feature Service

SEATTLE—Ralph Whaley has shot every kind of game on the North American continent with a bow and arrow except buffalo and antelope.

As an additional sports sideline he applied his engineering knowledge to golf and by following four major principals can play in par, although he's never taken a lesson nor practiced. And golf's another kind of "game" he's shot with a bow and arrow.

Whaley, 52-year-old Seattle business man-sportsman-bowman-golfer, is almost as agile as when he was a boy of 17 living off the land with his bow and arrow and walking from the Cabinet mountain in northern Idaho along the Rockies clear to the Liard river country in subarctic Canada east of Alaska.

He left his North Idaho home when he was 14 and worked his way through Spokane High School. Then he set off on his five and one-half month trek to the northern Canadian wilds. He saw human beings only twice on the trip. He trapped for one winter and made $722—more money than I ever thought was in the world.

Off To College

Whaley decided then that a college education was what he needed. So he went to the University of Washington in 1905. He was a crew man and played football and basketball.

After the war Whaley organized a contracting company which he sold 10 years later for $200,000 cash. He also gets royalties from more than 50 patent inventions. So now work is a sideline with him, and he can travel around the country with his bow and arrows and his golf clubs.

Whaley won the Banff, Alta. Prince of Wales golf tournament the past August. He hadn't played for two months before he reached the difficult Banff course. He qualified with an 81, but was right around par the rest of the tourney.

Beat Pros With Arrows

As a stunt, Whaley and a Banff

RALPH WHALEY: His "Best Arrow" Is Tough To Beat.

archer teamed their "best arrow" against the best ball of four golf professionals. They finished all square with 64s.

Whaley has two bows. One weighs 102 pounds, and has a terrific pull. Whaley handles it like a baby. Anybody else trying it finds his arms suddenly tied up like pretzels.

His Canadian trek with bow and arrow was made because "they're lighter to carry and I didn't have enough money for ammunition, anyway." The handsome woodsman says, too, that he prefers a knife or tomahawk to a six-shooter at 20 feet. Indians taught him how to throw the weapons—"like a baseball"—and he can throw a knife through a deer. Hunting grizzlies with bow and arrow in Northern British Columbia is on his fall program.

Just by way of showing the orange light of caution one is impelled to say that until the smoke of the naval engagement off the Norwegian coast lifts to give us details of what is now a mystery-battle we shall do well to sit tight and not rock our own boat with excited speculation.

All we know of a certainty is that allied and German naval and air units are, or have been, in conflict on an agitated sea. It would appear that for the first time in history warships have been supported by squadrons of bombing and fighting planes.

Former Marionite Held in Florida
on Check Charge; Bigamy Suspected

A former Marion man is held at Miami, Fla., on a bad check charge and officials here and in Miami are investigating a report that he also is suspected of bigamy.

Police Chief Marks reported today that officers here have established through photographs that the man held in Florida is Burton L. Fisher, about 40, who lived at 891 South Prospect street before he disappeared about six weeks ago. A warrant for Fisher's arrest on a forged check filed here recently has been sent to Florida so that he can be returned here when, and if, he is released by Florida officials, Chief Marks said.

Get Letter From Florida
The Marion police department began investigating the case several days ago when they received a letter from the sheriff of Duval county, Florida, asking them to determine whether or not Fisher ever lived here and if so whether he was married at that time. The letter stated that Fisher was arrested on a bad check charge at Miami recently and that officers there learned that he had recently married a Florida woman, under another name and stated in applying for a marriage license that he had not been married previously.

Chief Marks said the letter also stated that Miami officials had received a report that he formerly lived in Marion and was married to Mrs. Melvina M. Fisher when he lived here. The chief said officers have verified that report but have been unable to contact Mrs. Melvina Fisher, who friends said moved to Cleveland about three weeks ago. Yesterday the police department notified Florida officials that as far as they can determine Fisher is still married to Mrs. Melvina Fisher.

Left in February
Friends of the family here said Fisher disappeared suddenly during the last week in February and, after waiting about three weeks for her husband to return, Mrs. Fisher went to Cleveland to make her home with a brother.

The Fisher's have a three-year-old son, Myron, who went to Cleveland with Mrs. Fisher, friends reported.

The forged check here was filed in connection with his employment with the L. L. Bechtel & Son heating equipment firm for which Mr. Fisher worked during the two and a half years he lived here, police said.

The charge, filed by E. Paul Bachman, assistant cashier of the National City Bank of Marion charges that Fisher forged the name of the firm to a $34.45 check which he cashed at the bank. The check was made payable to Fisher, the affidavit charges. The check was issued Feb. 24, and business associates said that Fisher disappeared the same day.

DEATH CLAIMS FORMER
MORROW CO. TEACHER

Special to The Star
MT. GILEAD, O., April 10—John Nelson Krout, 80, teacher in the Morrow county schools for many years, died this morning at his home in Mt. Gilead after an illness of infirmities of age. After teaching in the county schools Mr. Krout joined the staff of the Northwestern Commercial college in Chicago. He had been with the Chicago concern 13 years when he retired 20 years ago and came to Mt. Gilead to live.

Mr. Krout a native of Maryland, was a child when his family moved to Mt. Gilead. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and I. O. O. F. lodge at Waterford in Morrow county. Surviving are four children, including Clinton E. Krout of near Mt. Gilead, and Mrs. Laura Williams of Edison, and two brothers, including Hiram Krout of Mt. Gilead. The funeral will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. at the Craven funeral home. Burial will be made in the Johnsville cemetery.

STOCKHOLDER SUES
REPUBLIC OFFICIALS

Named Defendants in 12 Million Dollar Suit.

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, April 10—Sixteen officers and directors of Republic Steel Corp., including Chairman Tom M. Girdler and President R. J. Wyor, are defendants today in stockholders' suits seeking $12,850,000 allegedly lost by the company as a result of the 1937 little steel strike.

Identical suits were filed yesterday here and in New York in the name of Mrs. Minnie Friedman of New York, owner of 10 shares of common stock, and on behalf of all other stockholders.

The petitions charge the defendants caused Republic to "interfere with, restrain and coerce employees in the exercise of their rights, guaranteed them under the national labor relations act, to self-organization." Girdler and Wyor are among the defendants named as having actively opposed the C.I.O. and as refusing to sign a contract with the steel workers organizing committee.

Company spokesmen said they had no statement at present.

FORMER KENTON MAYOR
STRICKEN IN HOSPITAL

Special to The Star
KENTON, O., April 10—Charles C. Stevenson, 61, former mayor of Kenton and for two terms Hardin county clerk of courts, died Tuesday in the Hardin county hospital where he had been a patient for 2 1/2 years.
